SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

WELL, we've done it! Four years ago in the September of 1930, we, a mob of wide eyed, dubious, eager Freshmen never dreamed that 1934 would find us a dignified (?) class of Seniors. Reality says we're here though, confessing that it hasn't been bad at all—in fact it's been glorious! And now just because we're human, we go sentimental and turn back the pages of our history and with sighs and a wish recall the events that have meant most to the Lavender and Whites of '34.

Too many of us had read "When Patty Went to College" and found it rather disappointing to replace fudge parties, midnight feasts, and bull sessions for parallel, homesickness, and Sophomores. However, we managed to get in our share of both diversions, and when hours grew a trifle dull, we just stepped out and ripped into a fire alarm. That was soon stopped very systematically, and we were entranced by the collegiate individuality of Stunt Night, Thanksgiving, and rah-rahs. We didn't win a thing but oh! how we yelled and tried. In the spring, thanks to Bay Lynch, we won the tennis championship and were one cup to the good.

Sophomores! and we set ourselves with no uncertain superiority to hazing Freshmen, burning the effigy, making good grades, winning a soccer championship, and graduating our sisters. It was all great fun, and we frankly admit that one's Sophomore year is one's most unforgetable.

With strange misgivings and illusions we made our appearance at Wesleyan as "upperclassmen"—as Juniors. There were worlds to conquer and we began our campaign immediately.

Very proudly, we accepted the Freshmen "Will-you-be-mine's" and tried earnestly to be the right kind of big sisters. Soccer came along, as soccer always does (which is grand) and we added another championship to our medals. Oh, yes, and we pantomimed the South's history Stunt Night to win second place. Spring found us grasping the swimming championship with our mouths gaping.

The ecstacies of that memorable Junior banquet are far too numerous to relate. New evening dresses, diets, invitations, telegrams, tuxedoes, corsages, caused only a part of the extra heart beats we experienced, and when we fairly beamed into the banquet hall—gorgeous with Easter lilies, spring flowers, candles, favors, and a real live orchestra playing dreamily from an "Easter Garden"—it's worth waiting for, Freshmen, that Junior banquet.

All at once we found ourselves a crowd—a host of Wesleyan Seniors. Unbelieveable! And as we pause to record these final months of our college life we would not omit a single thing—and yet there is space for only a few of our crowning moments.

The year began with our furnishing heads for all the major organizations; hence the time for assuming the weight of the world was at hand. We felt very oldish as we marched down the aisle at Mulberry church that first Sunday in our caps and gowns.

Thanksgiving Banquet meant to the '34's "A Ship of Splendor" (our theme) songs to us, and from us—and we were the honored ones. There was a queer conflict of feeling when we realized that this was our last one—together.

The spring cheerfully ushered in the swimming meet, tennis matches, our last "holidays"—and to them all we sang our "Swan Song".

Commencement week will find us eager, nervous, wondering, hoping, enjoying all the last parties, bull sessions, "families-meeting families", and all sorts of promises and plans for next year.

Then that final day when we proudly turn the tassels on our caps to the left side, feel the sheep skin well in our clasp, and leave our "Alma Mater".

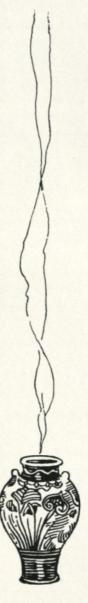

These four years at Wesleyan have meant too much for a printed page. The influences, friendships, atmosphere, and genuine love for Wesleyan which we have come to know and be a part of is something which we—the Round Table class of '34—shall not lose in the years to come.

We somehow feel that it will go with us always.

May our lives as they stretch out over the years hold sacred all those things which have made us more worthy, and may we lift Wesleyan higher in the giving of our best selves to the ideal she has bid us follow!

-SALLY JONES.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

SEPTEMBER 26, 1931—and what followed—

"Gosh those Sophomores are mean to us. They call us rats. Thought I'd grown up when I came to college, but it seems that we are being treated like children but it's fun.

Sophomore days are over, thank heavens! And I have acquired the best Junior sister.

Soccer practice has started, and we ought to have a good team. Nope, we didn't win the championship. But Thanksgiving was GRAND.

Are we proud of ourselves? We won the basketball championship—took first and second place in the swimming meet (thanks to Helen), and Maurine played tennis for us.

Hate to see those Seniors leave. Wesleyan won't be the same without them.

We're SOPHOMORES now! We're all worn out with making the Freshmen work. It made us all sleepy keeping the "rats" up until all hours. And were the Juniors and Seniors surprised when they heard about our rat court?

You never would believe it, but we have a comeback to 'Gangway, Tri-K'.

We sank to our Senior sisters at the Thanksgiving banquet—no more need be said.

The Sophomore-Senior banquet and breakfast couldn't have been better, but we hate to think of it as our last together.

Our little sisters won the soccer championship—that's what comes from bringing them up in the way they should go.

We are beginning to feel our age now. At this Thanksgiving banquet, we were not the little sisters who sang to the upperclassmen, but the younger generation sang to us.

And now—we're looking forward to the Junior prom and the summer vacation, and be looking forward to that time when we'll next year we'll be SENIORS, and we'll find a diploma in our hands—and then, it'll all be over."

-HARRIET CAMPBELL.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

Of all the classes it is told By far the best is "Green and Gold". Her girls have zest and vim and fun. Just look at all the things they've done! Since coming here in '32 There's little that they've not been through. In soccer, tennis, basketball, They're hard to beat—and that's not all. In ev'ry phase of Wesleyan play They take their part in fine, fair way. In class they know-I've heard it's true-Just what to say and what to do. And when it comes to having dates You'll find that every Sophomore rates. We took the honors on stunt night When every bunny hopped just right. We've done our part for N.R.A. We had the prize float, by the way. If you should look the whole world o'er There's not a class with virtues more. So if you'll listen sure and well I'll tell you of her personnel. Our president is ever true So Laura Harris, here's to you! Gene Laney always stays close by To lend a hand to help the "Y".

000

If beauty is the requisite
Marie Louise is here with it.
In ev'ry sport is Alice Cook
Who helps our team by hook or crook.
An all-round girl is in our clan,
We sing your praises, Sis McCann.
In sports and study, ev'ry phase,
Your fine achievement merits praise.
And now in truth we plainly see
Just why, of course, it's come to be
That of the classes it is told
By far the best is "Green and Gold".

AN AESCHYLITIC DAY AT WESLEYAN

ROSY fingered dawn came forth tripping upon the soft tinkling notes of bright, shining, sweet toned alarm clocks.

The heavenly maidens arose from their leafy beds of blankets and went forth ready for the chase to join their sisters in the assembly halls of the great castle (Wesleyan castle possessing these places of assemblage in magno numero—there being one to each floor of the various wings of the great castle).

At the loud blast of the electric bells, the pious maidens lead the chase to the great banquet hall where presides the stately Martha Cooper.

Swift Mercury driving a blue tinted chariot leads the chase to more remote regions (much frequented regions, however) where the aerial maidens receive messages from their all loving, long suffering families, also they receive news of friends and stalwart warriors of neighboring castles. Not infrequently, the pious band tear their hair and would like to tear the hair of various families and warriors—for reasons of their own.

Another blast is heard from the great bells which owe their powers of blasting to the mighty Ted who doeth strange and wonderful works and keepeth the domiciles of the heavenly crew in such condition as pleaseth them (he fixeth electric lights, radios, lamps, and things of such nature). Nevertheless, notwithstanding, not only, but also, the gentle sisters direct the chase to Tate Castle, or proceed ad gymnasium where they do flit about in a most delightful manner. (Time was, however, when they danced the Virginia Reel in black cotton stockings.)

After no small amount of time has been consumed, they hasten with great joy to labs and afternoon classes until Helios hides herself behind the clouds. Having apologized to the majestic Miss Cooper for being of a dilatory character, having feasted for some time, glowing with anticipated joy, they proceed to the library. Having become authorities on no small number of subjects, the gentle maids retire to their rooms to await once more the arrival of rosy fingered dawn announced by the soft tinkling notes of bright, shining, sweet toned alarm clocks.

And thus endeth the day without a single apology to Aeschylus because we do not presume to think that our humble work will penetrate the Elysian Fields to come under his notice. Should such occur, we would be so overcome that we would not be able to make apology.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

THERE is just one consolation in being a Freshman, and that is that everybody else in school has been through the same thing. All the upper classmen told us that they would love to live their Freshman year all over again, but we have our doubts.

Our very first experience at college was with the girls in blue and the girls in lavender. None of us knew whom or what they represented, but by the end of three hours and about one hundred and fifty questions, they had assumed the aspects of goddesses.

Unfortunately, however, they took off their jackets, and for every jacket, there popped up at least a dozen Sophomores. They stalked us, they ordered us, and finally, they caught us. They greased our faces; they dressed us in bath towels; and they paraded us before the Mercer boys.

The stunt and the Sophomores may have kept us up at night, but soccer certainly put us back to bed. By the end of the first week, our ankles looked like mummies, and no one dared take the wrappings off for fear she would lack class spirit. However, despite these shaky understandings, soccer was perfectly grand, and we loved it! The thrill of winning the championship and going to the Thanksgiving banquet were worth all the sore muscles and bruised shins in the world.

College is a wonderful place, and although we may not have a brilliant class, at least we know that we were smart about one thing—we knew enough to come to Wesleyan!

-GLADYS MORRISON.

Note to Miss Godley: Just as soon as we win the basketball championship you can send this back for more.

WESLEYAN ORGANIZATIONS

ORGANIZATIONS are the ties that bind—they bind students to the college and to each other. The members of the various organizations have common interests that promote a more general feeling of fellowship and make them feel that what they are doing helps to make up college life.

For those interested in writing, Wesleyan offers a journalism department for training, and a newspaper, magazine, writers' club, and yearbook to put that training into practice.

The dramatic club offers the play lovers, the dramatic, and the speakers an opportunity to make use of their ability. And the debaters' council offers further opportunity for those interested in public speaking and debating.

Basketball, soccer, hockey, horseback riding, swimming, and various other sports make the athletic association a very popular organization on the Wesleyan campus.

In addition to these, there are literary and scientific clubs which are complementary to class room work.

And we might add our Y. W. C. A. and student government which are perhaps the two chief organizations at Wesleyan. These and the other organizations serve to promote a more general happiness among the student body.

Y. W. C. A.

LOOKING to the life lived upon the campus at Rivoli and to the life lived beyond the campus, the Y. W. C. A. offers resources for the abundant living. This organization is unified by the "desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God".

Social living comes through the formal parties, fun parties, Christmas trees, and annual stunt night. For the life found in service to others, the Social Service department offers the work with the Hepzibah Orhans' Home and campus interests.

A fuller interpretation of living comes through weekly suppers and discussions with girls in the industrial world in connection with the Macon Y. W. C. A.

Broadened sympathies come from the interests of the World Fellowship group.

The Publicity department furnishes an expression of inward beauty by poster making and through the Art club, music, and worship come resources for the fullest living. The depths of the inner life are touched and strength comes through morning watch, vespers, and taps.

... "In this task, we should seek to understand Jesus and follow Him."

Health Week, Miss Health is chosen. The major organizations send in the name of the girl to represent them in the selection of Miss Health, and the final selection is made by the head of the infirmary and head of the physical education department. The selection is kept a secret until Play Day, the last day of Health Week, when Miss Health is crowned.

MISS MARY JENKINS

SOCCER is the first, and one of the most popular sports at Wesleyan. It probably causes just a little bit more excitement than any of the others, because it comes when there is a crispness in the air that refuses to go unnoticed.

WHETHER you note the dignity or not-this is the Senior soccer team. They started their soccer career by not winning a single game. But the next year, they placed the lavender and white ribbon on the cup where it stayed until their age began to tell on them. The Seniors took the cup from the Red and White team two years ago, and now that they are graduating, they gave it back-very noble of them, we think.

FOLLOWING the Seniors' good example, the Junior team, wanting their children to quit kicking about things, helped the Freshmen tie a beautiful red and white bow on the soccer cup. But they made them work for it. They believe in allowing children success, but to insure a true appreciation of it, they don't think that it should come too easily. And so, after a second struggle between good sports of the same family, the Golden Hearts gracefully withdrew.

And because its real beginning is on Thanksgiving. It starts with new uniforms, old friends back again, much cheering, bril liant colors, and a banquet. After a few days of real excitement, it ends,—with a cup.

CLARA BELLE and the Sophomores added their bit to the soccer season and helped make Thanksgiving a real success. Clara Belle, the sponsor, and the mascot watched the Green and Gold make quite a few hundred yard dashes up and down the soccer field. Although they were disappointed over losing, they were glad that it was to the Seniors. Anyhow-there were hot dogs and dopes at the pharm, and candy and cake had returned once more to Sophomore building.

HAIL, the conqueroring heroes come! And right nere, we would like to introduce none other than the Freshman soccer team, wearers of the red and white, the proud possessors of some twenty-two or more excellent feet. How did they do it? Perhaps it's all in knowing how. But whatever it was, our youngest has taken its place in the world, and the KKK is not to be trifled with.

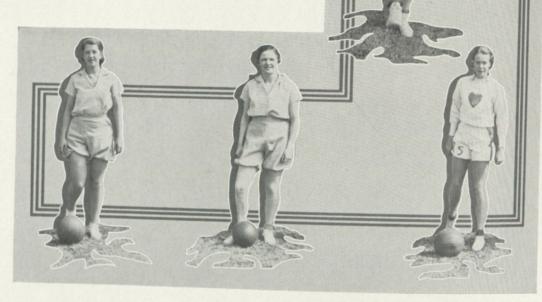

To the right is Frances Rees—sometimes known as "Little Rees" and "Miss Greece". She's rather small and not very tall, but it's the feet that count, and she can stand her ground.

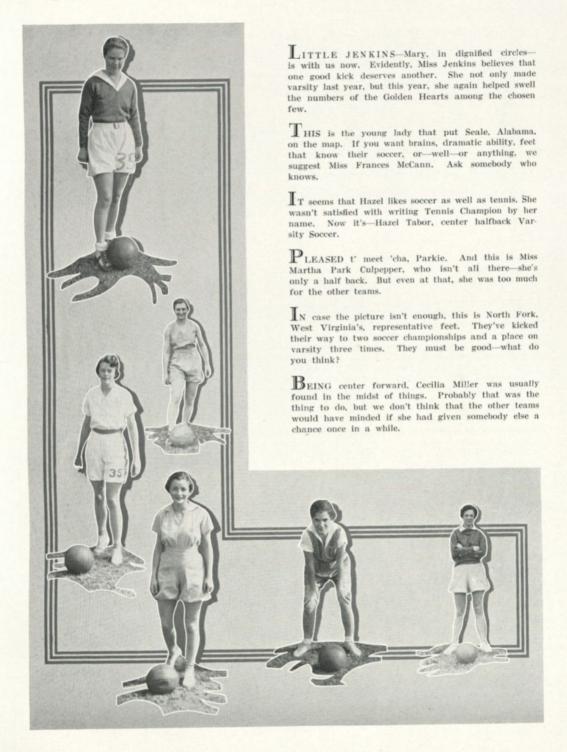

ELIZABETH STAYER NEW—need any more be said? If so, she says it with feet. And this is the best we have in goal keepers. She's not too late and not too soon, but just in time to greet the ball with open arms—and then—throw her shoe at it without taking her foot out.

SMART and feet—a very present help in time of trouble, that is, if you're speaking for the Golden Hearts, class of '35. But, for other teams—a trial and a tribulation.

Warrenton's contribution to the athletic world is none other than Miss Margaret Evans—and it is thought that she has been called "Pinkie" at some time in her career. Pinkie is always kicking about something, and perhaps, that is why she made the goal keepers so uncomfortable.

AND this, we believe, is Miss Clara Young, who can kick with no uncertain force. It's feet like hers that helped tie the red and white colors on the cup, and long may they wave—the colors, we mean.

No—you could hardly call this soccer. There is a resemb!ance, but you don't play soccer with your hands. And, you could hardly call it basketbal!—but this athletic mixture represents just that. This is a basketbal! action picture.

THEY'RE through with basketball—they'll never play again. Perhaps it was the burden of responsibility that they've been carrying since they've furnished heads for the organizations this year, or was it their ever generous natures that caused them to add their lusty voices to the cheers for the Sophomores in the championship game? Whatever it was, they had a larger variety of food to soothe their sorrows, and they're proud of the Sophomores.

PERHAPS the Juniors are aging a little too. Realizing that they belonged to the older generation, they took their places with the Seniors—or, should we say, just a little to the side of the Seniors—to swell the volume of "All Hail, Tri K" and "Ummmm Tra La, They Sho' Have Got The Pep." It seems that the little sisters are following the good example that the Juniors set for them when they were Freshmen. Basketball championships seem to run in the family.

WE have the basketball—we have the action—we have the picture—but—there is still a puzzled look on our faces. The gym was a little bit too dark for an action picture—so, since the light wouldn't come to the teams, we took the teams to the light. We might add that the figures are the main thing and that the background was not supposed to show—but it seems that

THEY started the ball rolling even if they didn't win. We don't remember just which one, but it was Little Cookie or Weenie who shot the first goal in the championship game. We would like to comment on the musical tones of the cow bell that spurred the Sophs on; the green and gold hair ribbons, dresses, and flowers were perfect, but there was one drawback—we didn't see Clara Belle.

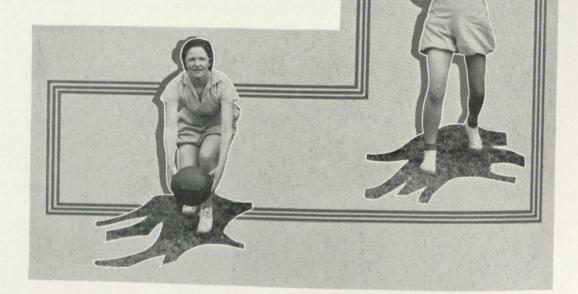

It seems that they have all the "wim and wigor"all the way from decorated tables and new songs to winning the basketball championship. It must be great to be young and energetic-it's our youngest who has been bringing in the laurels, only they were cups. If something doesn't happen, it seems that the Trophy room will be a study in Red and White. Possibly they're the best colors-however, there may be a difference of opinion about that.

AND this is one of the ways that South Carolina took it out on the Sophomores. A superfluity of vitality, in the person of one Miss Essie Davis, had no small part in making the rest of us see red.

It seems that Dot has been all up in the air about something—and the conclusions that she was jumping at seemed to be pretty final even if they were in the shape of a basketball.

MISS EVANS again, we believe. She wasn't satisfied with kicking us all out of the way—now she's making us see stars. The soccer champion of some months back, now greets you as the basketball hero, champion, and star.

OTHER ATHLETICS AT WESLEYAN

In the center, please note Corn's grin—probably the most strenuous exercise indulged in upon the Wesleyan campus. All of our athletics do not take place in the gym, but then, they can speak for themselves.

THE WESLEYAN BALL

THE sky was blue; the trees were green; there was sunshine—but there was also moisture in the atmosphere. With no definite number of tears, school opened with an important event—the Freshman Bawl. Everybody was there—participating, comforting, or remembering certain days gone by.

When autumn leaves start falling, another ball starts rolling. And every afternoon a brown ball goes up in the air—there are twenty-two feet that are sending it there. It goes from one end of the field to the other—frequently straying across the line, and sometimes, it manages to roll between the goal posts causing confusion and a general uproar. The feature of this ball comes sometime in late November. The beginning of the end is on the soccer field, and the end itself comes in the dining hall.

Just after Christmas, comes a time when we are all balled up. There is a superfluity of private signs, the pharm does a rushing business, and at twelve-thirty P.M. and five-thirty P.M. the inmates all turn out for an airing. An atmosphere of knowledge—or is it ignorance—prevails. But after ten days, the walking encyclopedias settle down very comfortably because they have nothing to worry about for four whole months.

"Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday, Mr. Roosevelt, happy birthday to you." And we had a president's ball.

When in the course of human events, by due process of years, credits, and hours, with great fear and much trembling, one approaches the ball of the four years. With the middle of the second semester, comes the Junior prom at which time all third year souls invite their boy friends to a great social function and hope for the best. After six have sent their regrets, and the first and seventh both accept; after the flowers, which would surely never come, arrived and matched everything perfectly, and after "he" arrived the last one—the Junior prom was pronounced a great success—after which all present began the act of recovery.

Wesleyan also has other balls—basketballs, hockey balls, baseballs, tennis balls, golf balls, rick rack balls, croquet balls, crochet balls (cord with which one crochets), jack stone balls, and . . . . .

The music is playing; there are caps and gowns; lavender and purple hoods are dropped; there are diplomas—misty eyes—and school closes with the Senior Bawl.

WHEN, in the course of human events, we grow weary of classes and parallel, term papers and labs, in order to insure a more interesting life and provide some means of breaking the monotony of an otherwise perfect existence we take part in sports and parties—we sing a little and write a little; we have Mother Goose parties and then we dress up and go to the President's ball. We grow journalistically inclined and help Mr. Anderson bring out the "Telegraph". It's quite thrilling to go out on a reporter's beat—to ride in airplanes—to have our finger prints taken—to write learned editorials—and to end it all with a midnight banquet. And the power behind it all is Miss Garner. Since there isn't enough space to tell all we do, we'll just let the pictures speak for themselves—or you can ask somebody who knows.

And lest we forget—we would like to dedicate this page to—

Dr. Gignilliat's love of horses.

There is Something Distinctive About Wesleyan

It occupies one of the most modern and splendidly equipped plants in America.

The buildings are fireproof. No dormitories more than three stories in height; each dormitory room has running water.

Every provision is made for health and physical development. Sports include golf, tennis, basketball, swimming, riding, and soccer.

The high quality of its work is recognized by the highest standardizing agencies in America.

The social, moral, and religious atmosphere is unexcelled anywhere.

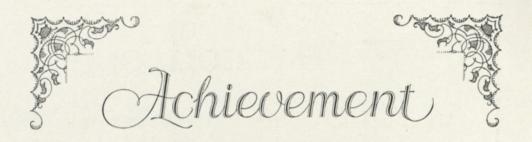

Best advantages are offered by the WESLEYAN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC AND FINE ARTS.

Rich in traditions of the past—alive to the needs of the future. We would like for you to know all about Wesleyan.
